Case No. 08-45227

PIERCE COUNTY HOUSING AUTHORITY

TACOMA, WA 98445-0410

MEMORANDUM DECISION

Debtor.

THIS MATTER came before the Court as an evidentiary hearing held on July 15 and 16, 2009, to determine the eligibility of Pierce County Housing Authority (Debtor) to file a petition under Chapter 9 of the Bankruptcy Code and for confirmation of the Debtor's proposed plan for adjustment of debts (Plan).¹ Objections to both the Debtor's eligibility and Plan were filed by the Eagles Watch Creditors. Objections to the Debtor's Plan were also filed by U.S. Bank National Association, in its capacity as indenture trustee (US Bank), and the Unsecured Creditors Committee (UCC). The UCC and the Debtor were able to reach an agreement regarding the UCC's objections, and the Debtor's First Amended Plan for Adjustment of Debts (Amended Plan) was filed on July 16, 2009. At the evidentiary hearing, US Bank also indicated that its objections had been resolved. At the conclusion of the hearing, the Court took the matter under advisement and requested further briefing from the Eagles

5 FINDINGS OF FACT

6 The Debtor is a non-profit public entity created in 1978, pursuant to Washington State statute, 7 for the purpose of providing affordable housing for low-income families. The Debtor owns fourteen 8 affordable housing apartment complexes and annually serves thousands of individuals in Pierce 9 County, Washington. The Debtor is governed by a Board of Commissioners, consisting of six 10 individuals who are appointed by the Pierce County Executive to serve for rotating, five-year terms.
11 The Debtor has approximately 62 employees.

12 The Debtor normally receives funds for its operations from three sources: (1) operating 13 subsidies and grants provided by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), (2) 14 grants from local governments and non-profit agencies, and (3) rent from its properties. The Debtor's 15 use of each source is restricted by statute, regulation, grant conditions or bond covenants.

16 The Debtor currently has a small pool of unrestricted funds. In 2003 and 2005, the Debtor sold 17 several of its properties that were not subject to its 1998 Pooled Housing Refunding Revenue Bonds
18 (1998 Bonds), generating capital available for general use. The 2003 and 2005 sales generated net 19 proceeds of approximately $2.5 million. The majority of these proceeds have been consumed by 20 litigation costs.

21 The Debtor cannot generate additional unrestricted funds from the sale of any of its remaining 22 properties because 13 of its 14 affordable housing properties are subject to the 1998 Bonds. The 23 Debtor irrevocably pledged all of the revenues from these properties, less operating and maintenance 24 expenses, to the payment of the 1998 Bonds. The current principal amount owed on the 1998 Bonds 25 is approximately $27,000,000.

1 The only property not subject to the 1998 Bonds is the Orting Senior Center, a 20-unit 2 apartment complex. This property is financed and subsidized by the Rural Development Project of the 3 U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA). The current principal amount owed for the loan on that 4 property is approximately $620,000. The Debtor's use of revenues from the Orting Senior Center is 5 restricted by USDA regulations. The Debtor also owes approximately $995,000 on a loan from Les 6 and Diana Froembling, which is secured by real property located in Tacoma, Washington.

7 One of the Debtor's properties is the Eagles Watch Apartments (Eagles Watch), located in 8 Puyallup, Washington. In June, 2006, a complaint was filed by a tenant of Eagles Watch, Mary Draper
9 (Draper), against the Debtor in Pierce County Superior Court (Draper Litigation). This lawsuit was filed 10 on Draper's behalf by the law firm of Gordon, Thomas, Honeywell, Malanca, Peterson & Daheim LLP
11 (Gordon Thomas firm). Draper alleged in the complaint that she had sustained personal and property 12 injury due to mold. Twenty-eight current and former tenants were joined in the action, including the 13 Feltons family. The Feltons settled with the Debtor shortly after joining the lawsuit. The Debtor has 14 consistently denied liability and damages for any mold-related claims.

15 In late 2007, the Debtor and the remaining plaintiffs settled for a cash payment of $750,000.
16 The settlement was formalized in November, 2007, and the Debtor paid the settlement amount shortly 17 thereafter. The Debtor expended approximately $1.2 million in legal fees in defending the Draper 18 Litigation.

19 In January, 2008, another tenant, also represented by the Gordon Thomas firm, filed suit in 20 Pierce County against the Debtor (L.M. v. PCHA, No. 08-2-04451-9). The suit again alleged injuries 21 due to mold infestation at Eagles Watch.

22 In February, 2008, the Feltons moved for a new trial date in the Draper Litigation because the 23 guardian ad litem for their minor child had disapproved the settlement. In March and April, 2008, the 24 Gordon Thomas firm filed three Public Records Act complaints, alleging that the Debtor had delayed in 25 producing its then-counsel's legal bills and invoices for fees incurred in the Draper Litigation.

1 In May, 2008, the Debtor began receiving claims entitled "Claims Regarding the Tortious
2 Conduct of Pierce County Housing Authority" from current and former tenants (as well as their guests) 3 alleging mold infestation at Eagles Watch. Despite the settlement, all but two of the former plaintiffs in 4 the Draper Litigation also gave notice of their intent to continue to litigate their previously asserted 5 claims against the Debtor. The plaintiffs in the Draper Litigation allege that the settlement was 6 fraudulently obtained based on alleged misrepresentations by the Debtor regarding the amount of 7 attorneys fees incurred in the Draper Litigation.

8 On September 12, 2008, the Gordon Thomas firm filed Anderson v. PCHA, No. 08-2-12411-3, 9 alleging mold-related claims by 80 plaintiffs. On September 20, 2008, the Debtor received four 10 additional administrative claims. Since January, 2008, the Debtor has received mold-related claims by 11 clients of the Gordon Thomas firm alleging a total of $21 million in damages.

12 A mediation was scheduled for October 6 and 7, 2008, between the Debtor and the Gordon 13 Thomas firm in an effort to obtain a global settlement of all the mold-related claims, including the 14 Draper Litigation. The parties were unable to reach a settlement and the mediation was concluded 15 prior to the end of the first day.

16 The Debtor filed a Chapter 9 bankruptcy petition (Petition) on October 13, 2008. A Statement 17 of Qualifications under 11 U.S.C. § 109(c) was filed with the Petition. On October 28, 2008, an order 18 was entered setting December 18, 2008, as a deadline for objecting to the Petition and January 16, 19 2009, for the Debtor to file a plan of adjustment.

20 On December 18, 2008, Darrell L. Cochran (Cochran), filed an Objection to Debtor's 21 Bankruptcy Petition (Objection to Petition). Cochran was originally with the Gordon Thomas firm and 22 is currently with the law firm of Pfau Cochran Vertetis Kosnoff, PLLC. The Objection to Petition states 23 that Cochran is filing the objection "individually and as attorney for other Creditors who have state 24 court claims pending against Debtor." Objection to Debtor's Bankruptcy Petition at 1 (No. 38).
25 Cochran alleges in the Objection to Petition that the Debtor does not meet the eligibility requirements for filing a Chapter 9 petition.

1 On January 6, 2009, the Debtor filed a motion to continue the date for filing its Plan from 2 January 16, 2009. After a hearing, an order was entered on January 20, 2009, continuing the deadline
3 for filing a Plan to a date at least 30 days after entry of a final order fully disposing of all issues raised 4 in the Objection to Petition.

5 On January 21, 2009, the Debtor filed a motion for entry of an order denying the Objection to 6 Petition. The Debtor's motion was scheduled for hearing on March 5, 2009. At the parties' request, 7 the March 5, 2009 hearing was subsequently continued to April 15, 2009, to allow the parties to 8 attempt mediation. After multiple mediation sessions taking place over several months, the mediation 9 proved to be unsuccessful.

10 On March 25, 2009, the Court scheduled a two-day hearing to determine the Debtor's eligibility 11 and to approve the Debtor's Disclosure Statement and Plan for July 15 and 16, 2009. The Debtor filed 12 its Chapter 9 Plan and Disclosure Statement on May 27, 2009. Objections to both the Debtor's 13 eligibility and Plan were filed by the Eagles Watch Creditors. Objections to the Debtor's Plan were 14 also filed by US Bank and the UCC. Prior to the hearing, the UCC and the Debtor agreed to the terms
15 of an amended plan. A First Amended Plan for Adjustment of Debts of Pierce County Housing 16 Authority (Amended Plan) was filed on July 16, 2009.

17 The Amended Plan proposes that the Debtor retain each of its properties and continue to 18 operate in the ordinary course of business in providing low-cost housing to Pierce County residents.
19 Creditors are divided into five classes. Class 1 consists of the secured claim of US Bank as indenture 20 trustee of the bondholders under the 1998 Bond refinancing. Class 1 shall be paid in full pursuant to 21 the terms of the Bond Indenture agreements. Class 2 consists of the secured claim of the USDA and 22 will be paid in full pursuant to the terms and conditions of the applicable loan documents. Class 3 23 consists of the secured claim of Les and Diana Froembling and will be paid in full pursuant to the 24 terms and conditions of the applicable loan documents. Class 4 consists of the unsecured claim of 25 Good Samaritan Healthcare, Inc. (Good Samaritan). Good Samaritan asserts an unsecured claim in the approximate amount of $130,000. Class 4 shall be paid in full in monthly payments following

1 confirmation in the form of a credit against rent and other amounts that would otherwise be due and 2 owing in connection with Good Samaritan's lease of apartment units from the Debtor, up to a 3 maximum of $2,000 in any one month.

4 Class 5 consists of all remaining unsecured claims. Class 5 includes, but is not limited to, the 5 unsecured claims of mold claimants. Holders of Class 5 claims are offered alternative payment terms.
6 Under Alternative A, each claimant will receive a one-time cash payment equal to the lesser of $1,000 7 or the amount of their allowed claim in full and in complete satisfaction of their claim. Each holder of 8 an allowed Class 5 claim must make an election for such treatment in conjunction with completing the 9 ballot on approval of the Plan. Claimants that select Alternative A shall be paid from a distribution fund 10 (i) after payment of the administrative expenses in advance of any distributions to claimants electing 11 treatment under Alternative B, (ii) on a pro rata basis if funds are insufficient to pay all such claims in 12 full, and (iii) within five business days of the later of the date that (a) the funds in the distribution 13 account are sufficient to pay in full all claimants electing treatment under Alternative A, or (b) all 14 recoverable assets have been liquidated.² The Amended Plan defines the Distribution Account as a 15 separate bank account into which all recoveries for subsequent distribution to Class 5 shall be placed.
16 Article 2.A.20. Recoveries are defined as the net proceeds from (i) recoveries on Avoidance Claims, 17 (ii) recoveries on Insurance Claims, and (iii) the sale of the Adjacent Lot, as such terms are further 18 defined therein. Article 2.A.42. A holder of a Class 5 claim can also elect treatment under Alternative 19 B. Those who reject the Amended Plan or do not return a ballot will also be treated under Alternative 20 B. Under Alternative B, each claimant will retain the right to receive a distribution up to the full amount 21 of their claim, but only after all payments have been made under Alternative A in full. In the event 22 there are insufficient funds to pay Alternative B claimants in full, they shall receive their pro rata share 23 of such funds in full and satisfaction of their claim.

24 _____
25 ² Article IV.B.5.b.(1) bullet point two contains several typos and incorrect labeling on the subheads that will need to be amended. The Debtor has since indicated that the phrase "the later of" should be amended to "the earlier of."

1 The Amended Plan proposes that the Debtor will sell certain real property adjacent to its 2 administrative offices and deposit all net proceeds in the Distribution Account. An examiner will be 3 appointed to investigate and report to this Court whether Pierce County holds any insurance coverage 4 to or for the Debtor regarding mold-related claims. If the examiner determines that the Debtor holds 5 claims for which any insurance held by Pierce County would provide coverage, such claims shall be 6 assigned to a "Post-Confirmation Committee," which is defined as the UCC following confirmation.
7 Article II.A.40. All other insurance claims shall be assigned to the Post-Confirmation Committee 8 pursuant to Article VII.F. Any net proceeds recovered from the insurance claims shall also be 9 deposited in the Distribution Account.

11 CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

12 A. Eligibility

13 According to § 109(c), [a]n entity may be a debtor under chapter 9 of this title if and only if such 14 entity –

15 (1) is a municipality;

16 (2) is specifically authorized, in its capacity as a municipality or by name, to be a debtor 17 under such chapter by State law, or by a governmental officer or organization empowered by State law to authorize such entity to be a debtor under such chapter;

18 (3) is insolvent;

19 (4) desires to effect a plan to adjust such debts; and

20 (5)(A) has obtained the agreement of creditors holding at least a majority in amount of 21 the claims of each class that such entity intends to impair under a plan in a case under such chapter;

22 (B) has negotiated in good faith with creditors and has failed to obtain the agreement of 23 creditors holding at least a majority in amount of the claims of each class that such entity intends to impair under a plan in a case under such chapter;

24 (C) is unable to negotiate with creditors because such negotiation is impracticable; or 25 (D) reasonably believes that a creditor may attempt to obtain a transfer that is avoidable under section 547 of this title.

1 To be eligible for Chapter 9 relief, the petition must meet each of the requirements of 2 § 109(c)(1) – (4) and one of the requirements under § 109(c)(5). Section 921(c) contains the added 3 requirement that the court may dismiss the petition if the debtor did not file the petition in good faith.

4 There is no objection or dispute that the Debtor meets the requirements of § 109(c)(1) and (2).
5 Although the Eagles Watch Creditors indicated in their Pretrial Statement that the Debtor does not 6 meet § 109(c)(4), no further argument or briefing to support this claim was provided. Section 109(c)(4) 7 requires a Chapter 9 petitioner to establish that it has a desire to effect a plan to adjust its debts. The 8 Debtor in this case satisfies this requirement by a preponderance of the evidence. Not only did the 9 Debtor file a Statement of Qualifications stating its intent to effect a plan to adjust its debts, the Debtor 10 has spent extensive time drafting and negotiating a Plan and Amended Plan. See In re City of 11 Vallejo, 408 B.R. 280, 295 (9th Cir. BAP 2009) (municipality may meet subjective eligibility 12 requirement of having intent to effect a plan with direct or circumstantial evidence, and may prove its 13 desire by attempting to resolve claims, by submitting a draft plan, or by other evidence customarily 14 submitted to show intent).

15 At issue in this case then is whether the Debtor is ineligible for Chapter 9 relief because it is not 16 insolvent as required by § 109(c)(3), did not negotiate in good faith with creditors as required by 17 § 109(c)(5)(B), and did not file the petition in good faith as required by § 921(c).

18 The burden is on the debtor to establish eligibility under § 109(c). In re Valley Health Sys., 383 19 B.R. 156, 161 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2008). The eligibility requirements of § 109(c) are to be broadly 20 construed “to provide access to relief in furtherance of the Code’s underlying policies.” Valley Health 21 Sys., 383 B.R. at 163 (quoting Hamilton Creek Metro. Dist. v. Bondholders Colo. Bondshares (In re 22 Hamilton Creek Metro. Dist.), 143 F.3d 1381, 1384 (10th Cir. 1998)).

23 1. Section 109(c)(3)

24 A municipality is insolvent if it is: (i) generally not paying its debts as they become due unless 25 such debts are the subject of a bona fide dispute; or (ii) unable to pay its debts as they become due.

1 Section 101(32)(C). The Debtor admits that it was current on its obligations as of the petition date, 2 and instead alleges insolvency under the second prong of the insolvency test. This is a prospective 3 test, with the reference point being the date the petition was filed. In other words, "it must be 4 determined as of [the petition date] whether [the Debtor] will be unable to pay its debts as they become 5 due." In re City of Bridgeport, 129 B.R. 332, 337 (Bankr. D. Conn. 1991). This is a cash flow, not a 6 budget deficit, analysis. City of Bridgeport, 129 B.R. at 337.

7 The Debtor's expert, Kent Mordy of Mordy Consulting PC (Mordy), testified that it is his opinion 8 that the Debtor was insolvent as of the petition date, as defined by § 101(32)(C)(ii), because the 9 Debtor would have been unable to pay its debts as they became due had the bankruptcy petition not 10 been filed. In making this determination, Mordy properly evaluated the current fiscal year and the next 11 fiscal year. See City of Bridgeport, 129 B.R. at 338 (to be found insolvent, a city must prove that it will 12 be unable to pay its debts as they become due in its current fiscal year or, based on an adopted 13 budget, in its next fiscal year).

14 If a Chapter 9 had not been filed, Mordy testified that the Debtor's estimated cash shortfall for 15 the 2009 fiscal year would have been $941,000. To arrive at this number, Mordy calculated an 16 Unfunded Cash Loss based on the Debtor's 2009 cash projections of $26,000 and then added back in 17 the Debtor's budgeted legal fees related to the bankruptcy filing of $322,000 and $163,000 in excess 18 reserves in accounts of the bond trustee as of December 31, 2008. This amount includes undisputed 19 unpaid obligations of $100,000, and anticipated legal fees to defend the mold litigation if the Chapter 9 20 filing had not occurred of $1,300,000. Cova Hunter, Debtor's Director of Finance, testified that this 21 figure is probably understated, as it does not include any amounts for the payment of judgments or in 22 settlement. She testified that the amount is also conservative in light of legal fees incurred by the 23 Debtor in the prepetition Draper Litigation. In that case, the Debtor incurred approximately $1.2 million 24 in legal fees in defending a claim involving 29 current and former Eagles Watch tenants. At the time 25 the Petition was filed, the Debtor faced not one, but seven pending cases involving substantially more defendants. Six of these actions had trial dates in 2009. Although the anticipated legal fees are

1 speculative, the Eagles Watch Creditors did not present any evidence to the contrary. The Court finds 2 the Debtor's witnesses' testimony to be credible.

3 The Eagles Watch Creditors argue that the Debtor was not insolvent when the Petition was 4 filed because, based on Mordy's own figures, it had assets consisting of buildings and equipment, of 5 approximately $44,000,000 as of the petition date.³ Hunter testified, however, that such assets could 6 not be sold to fund litigation because 13 of the Debtor's 14 properties (the Affordable Housing 7 properties) are subject to liens securing either the 2008 Bonds or the HUD Rural Development 8 Program loan, and the residences under the LIPH Program are subject to HUD restrictions. The 9 Eagles Watch Creditors failed to present any evidence to refute or contradict this testimony.

10 Although the Debtor has substantial assets and cash reserves, it has very limited funds and 11 other assets that are not subject to a pre-existing limitation or restriction on their use. Nor does the 12 Debtor have the ability to increase its discretionary funds. As stated above, the undisputed evidence 13 is that properties cannot be sold as they were in 2003 and 2005 to fund litigation and settlement 14 costs.⁴ Nor could this Debtor increase rents to create unrestricted funds. State law apparently 15 prohibits the Debtor from operating at a profit, and rents may be no higher than is necessary to fund 16 current bond payments and reserves, and to pay for administrative expenses and the cost of operating 17 and maintaining its properties. See RCW 35.82.080.

18 The Eagles Watch Creditors also argue that the Debtor cannot prove that it is insolvent 19 because it has failed to tender their claims to Pierce County or potential insurers. The Eagles Watch 20 Creditors have failed to provide, and the Court is unaware of, any case law holding that potential 21 insurance coverage should be considered in the insolvency analysis. Particularly when a 22 preponderance of the testimony of the witnesses acknowledges that coverage will be hotly contested.

23
24 ³ Mordy clarified in testimony that this number is not reflective of fair market value for the assets, but depicts the Debtor's original costs for the purchase of such assets.

25 ⁴ Mordy further clarified that the term "Unrestricted Net Assets" as used on Exhibit D to his declaration (submitted as Debtor's Exhibit 16), is simply an accounting term and does not mean that such funds can be used for any purpose. Mordy testified that such funds could not be used to fund additional litigation or settlement costs.

1 None of the cases cited by the Eagles Watch Creditors in support of their argument involve insurance 2 coverage or are analogous to the situation before this Court. For instance, in In re Ellicott Sch. Bldg.
3 Auth., 150 B.R. 261, 265 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1992), the bankruptcy court determined that insolvency had 4 not been conclusively demonstrated where the debtor had access to a reserve fund and a defaulted 5 rent payment from which it could make its current debt payments. Likewise, in City of Bridgeport, the 6 court found that the city failed to establish that it was insolvent where it had approximately $28 million 7 in surplus funds from bond sale proceeds. City of Bridgeport, 129 B.R. at 337.⁵ In each of these 8 cases, the debtor had available a tangible reserve fund from which debts could be paid.

9 Unlike the debtors in the cases cited above, the Debtor before this Court does not have a 10 tangible reserve fund from which debts can be paid. Not only is liability for any mold-related damages 11 contested, even if liability could be established, there remains the issue of whether Pierce County or 12 an insurer would be liable for such obligations. The Debtor has consistently maintained that Pierce 13 County has no liability for its obligations under State law. See RCW 35.82.130. As in Sullivan, this 14 Court agrees that the failure of the Debtor to pursue potential insurance coverage by Pierce County, “if 15 relevant at all, has to do with ‘good faith’ issues . . . and not with their status of insolvency.” Sullivan, 16 165 B.R. at 76.

17 The Court concludes that the Debtor has established that it was insolvent as of the petition 18 date as required by § 109(c)(3).

19 2. Section 109(c)(5)(B)

20 In order to be eligible to be a debtor under Chapter 9, the Debtor must establish that it can 21 satisfy one of the requirements under § 109(c)(5). The Debtor has alleged that it meets the 22 requirements of either § 109(c)(5)(B) or (C).

24 ⁵ In its brief, the Eagles Watch Creditors also cite to the case of In re Sullivan County Reg'l Refuse Disposal 25 Dist., 165 B.R. 60 (Bankr. D. N.H. 1994). This case, however, does not support their position as the court in Sullivan determined that the debtor had established insolvency and that the debtor's failure to impose a special assessment on member towns to raise funds to meet its obligations was irrelevant to the issue of insolvency.
Sullivan, 165 B.R. at 76.

1 Section 109(c)(5)(B) requires that the Debtor establish that it “has negotiated in good faith with 2 creditors and has failed to obtain the agreement of creditors holding at least a majority in amount of 3 the claims of each class that such entity intends to impair under a plan in a case under such chapter.”

4 On June 26, 2009, the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel of the Ninth Circuit (BAP) filed an opinion in 5 the case of In re City of Vallejo, 408 B.R. 280 (9th Cir. BAP 2009). In Vallejo, the City of Vallejo
6 (Vallejo) filed a Chapter 9 petition and several of Vallejo's unions challenged its eligibility for relief 7 under that chapter. The bankruptcy court determined that Vallejo was eligible under Chapter 9 and the 8 unions appealed. On appeal, the unions argued that the bankruptcy court erred in finding that 9 Vallejo's prepetition negotiations met the statutory requirements of 11 U.S.C. § 109(c)(5)(B) because 10 they did not include negotiations over the possible terms of a plan of adjustment. Vallejo, 408 B.R. at 11 296.

12 Recognizing that the plain language of § 109(c)(5)(B) was unclear, the BAP examined the 13 remaining language in the statute to hold that § 109(c)(5)(B) requires “negotiations with creditors 14 revolving around a proposed plan.” Vallejo, 408 B.R. at 297. “[W]hile a complete plan is not required, 15 some outline or term sheet of a plan which designates classes of creditors and their treatment is 16 necessary.” Vallejo, 408 B.R. at 297. As the “evidence was undisputed that Vallejo never negotiated 17 with Unions or any of its creditors over the possible terms of a plan of adjustment,” the BAP concluded 18 that the bankruptcy court erred in finding that Vallejo satisfied § 109(c)(5)(B). Vallejo, 408 B.R. at 297.

19 As in Vallejo, it is undisputed that the Debtor and the Eagles Watch Creditors participated in 20 extensive prepetition negotiations. However, also as in Vallejo, there is no evidence that the Debtor 21 ever negotiated prepetition with any of its creditors over the possible terms of a plan of adjustment.
22 Based on the testimony submitted, the only mention of bankruptcy by the Debtor prepetition was 23 statements at the October 6, 2008 mediation suggesting that bankruptcy was an option being 24 considered. Thus, the Debtor is unable to satisfy the requirements of § 109(c)(5)(B).
25

1 3. Section 109(c)(5)(C)

2 The Debtor alleges that it also meets the requirements of § 109(c)(5)(C). Section 109(c)(5)(C) 3 provides that “[a]n entity may be a debtor under chapter 9 of this title if and only if such entity . . . is 4 unable to negotiate with creditors because such negotiation is impracticable.” Although the burden is 5 on the Debtor to establish that the eligibility requirements have been met, the Court notes that despite 6 the fact that the Debtor has consistently indicated that it is alleging eligibility under both § 109(c)(5)(B) 7 and (C), the Eagles Watch Creditors have never offered any evidence or argument to challenge the 8 Debtor’s eligibility under § 109(c)(5)(C).

9 “Whether negotiations with creditors is impracticable depends upon the circumstances of the 10 case.” Vallejo, 408 B.R. at 298. “‘Impracticable’ means ‘not practicable; incapable of being performed 11 or accomplished by the means employed or at command; infeasible.’ In the legal context, 12 ‘impracticability’ is defined as ‘a fact or circumstance that excuses a party from performing an act, esp.
13 a contractual duty, because (though possible) it would cause extreme and unreasonable difficulty.’” 14 Vallejo, 408 B.R. at 298 (quoting Valley Health Sys., 383 B.R. at 163). “Petitioners may demonstrate 15 impracticability by the sheer number of their creditors or by their need to file a petition quickly to 16 preserve their assets.” Vallejo, 408 B.R. at 298.

17 The Debtor alleges that negotiations were impracticable in this case based on the sheer 18 number of creditors. Although the Debtor did engage in prepetition negotiations, such negotiations 19 only involved the litigants represented by Cochran. Admittedly, Cochran only represents a minority 20 (less than 150) of the Debtor’s potential creditors. The Debtor has indicated that it has thousands of 21 current and former tenants, as well as their guests, that could conceivably assert mold-related damage 22 claims. Over 7,000 creditors and parties in interest were set forth on the mailing matrix in this case.
23 The vast majority of these parties are current and former tenants of the Debtor’s 14 apartment
24 complexes. These numbers do not include potential unknown plaintiffs, which may include the guests 25 of current and former tenants. See, e.g. Valley Health Sys. 383 B.R. at 165 (finding that § 109(c)(5)(C)

1 requirement was met where the debtor's petition disclosed not more than 5,000 creditors holding 2 claims in excess of $100 million). Given the Debtor's unsuccessful attempts to settle with the existing 3 plaintiffs pre and postpetition, the Court agrees that it would have been impracticable, if not 4 impossible, for the Debtor to negotiate and settle with all potential creditors prior to filing its Chapter 9 5 petition. Accordingly, the Debtor has met its burden of establishing that it is eligible for Chapter 9 6 relief.

7 4. Section 921(c)

8 Although this is not an eligibility requirement per se, § 921(c) provides that a court may dismiss 9 a Chapter 9 petition if the debtor did not file the petition in good faith. Unlike the eligibility 10 requirements of § 109(c), the court's power to dismiss a petition under § 921(c) is permissive, not 11 mandatory. 6 Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 921.04[4], at 921-7 (Alan N. Resnick & Henry J. Sommer eds., 12 15th ed. rev.). Facts that may be relevant to this analysis include "(i) the debtor's subjective beliefs; (ii)
13 whether the debtor's financial problems fall within the situations contemplated by chapter 9; (iii) 14 whether the debtor filed its chapter 9 petition for reasons consistent with the purposes of chapter 9; (iv) 15 the extent of the debtor's prepetition negotiations, if practicable; (v) the extent that alternatives to 16 chapter 9 were considered; and (vi) the scope and nature of the debtor's financial problems." Collier ¶ 17 921.04[2], at 921-5 to -6 (citations omitted).

18 The legislative history indicates that the strict hurdles to filing Chapter 9 were implemented to 19 ensure that it was considered by a municipality only as a last resort. See Sullivan, 165 B.R. at 82. In 20 the present case, the evidence suggests that the Debtor made the decision to file Chapter 9 only after 21 several years of negotiations and attempts at mediation failed. The first mold-related case (Draper 22 Litigation) was filed in June, 2006. After an extensive mediation held in August, 2007, the parties 23 agreed to a settlement. This settlement, however, did not end the litigation. Several additional 24 lawsuits, also claiming mold-related damages, were subsequently filed and the parties to the Draper 25 Litigation gave notice of their intent to continue their previously asserted claims. The Chapter 9 petition was not filed until a second mediation was held on October 6, 2008, and failed. See, e.g. In re Town of Westlake, Tex., 211 B.R. 860, 868 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 1997) (fact that the town faced prospect of “frozen funds, multiple litigation, and disannexation of a substantial portion of its tax base” demonstrated that the petition was filed in good faith).

The Eagles Watch Creditors’ primary argument is that the Debtor’s lack of good faith in filing the Petition is evidenced by its failure to investigate and pursue allegedly viable claims against Pierce County and its insurers. Although the Court agrees that the failure to pursue assets may be evidence of bad faith in certain instances, the Court does not find that the Debtor’s failure to tender claims in this case is evidence of bad faith in filing the Petition.

As stated in the prior section, the Debtor denies liability for mold-related damages and further denies that Pierce County or its insurers have liability for its obligations even if mold-related claims have been established. Thus, the Court is unconvinced that it is bad faith for the Debtor to refuse to tender claims that it does not believe are valid to a third-party for whom it believes has no liability pursuant to State law. Despite denying liability, the Debtor has exhibited a desire to deal with these claims and readjust its debts. The Debtor has proposed a Plan, which has been substantially amended in order to obtain the approval of two of the three objecting parties, the UCC and US Bank. Although liability for mold-related claims is still denied as well as coverage by Pierce County, the Debtor’s Amended Plan contains a mechanism for dealing with such claims and evaluation for submission to Pierce County. The Court finds that a preponderance of the evidence indicates that the Petition was filed in good faith.

B. Confirmation

A Chapter 9 debtor is required to file a plan with the petition, or by such date the court fixes. See § 941. Unlike Chapter 11, there is no provision in Chapter 9 allowing creditors or other parties in interest to file a plan. This limitation is required by the United State Supreme Court’s decision in Ashton v. Cameron County Water Improvement Dist. No. 1, 298 U.S. 513, 56 S. Ct. 892 (1936), interpreting the Tenth Amendment to the Constitution as requiring that a municipality be left in control

1 of its governmental affairs during a Chapter 9 case. Neither creditors nor the court may control 2 expenditures for municipal services or otherwise control the affairs of a municipality indirectly through 3 the mechanism of proposing a plan of adjustment of the municipality's debts that would in effect 4 determine the municipality's future tax and spending decisions. See § 904.

5 Section 943 sets forth seven requirements for confirmation of a plan. If these standards are 6 met, the bankruptcy court must confirm the plan. See Collier ¶ 943.01, at 943-4. Section 943(b)(1)
7 also requires that the plan comply with certain other provisions of Title 11 made applicable by § 103(e) 8 and § 901. Section 901, makes applicable many of the plan confirmation requirements contained in 9 Chapter 11, including § 1129(a)(2), (a)(3), (a)(6), (a)(8) and (a)(10). The debtor bears the burden of 10 satisfying the confirmation requirements of § 943(b) by a preponderance of the evidence. In re Mount 11 Carbon Metro. Dist., 242 B.R. 18, 31 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1999).

12 Objections to the Debtor's original Plan were filed by the Eagles Watch Creditors, the UCC and 13 US Bank. After extensive negotiations, the Debtor resolved its objections with the UCC and US Bank, 14 resulting in the filing of the Amended Plan. The only remaining objection to the Debtor's Amended 15 Plan has been asserted by the Eagles Watch Creditors.

16 There is no dispute that the Debtor's Amended Plan satisfies the confirmation requirements of 17 § 943(b)(3), (5) or (6). At issue is whether the Amended Plan satisfies the requirements of § 943(b)(1), 18 (2), (4) and (7). The Court will examine each objection separately to determine if the Amended Plan is 19 confirmable.

20 1. Article II.A.18

21 The Eagles Watch Creditors argue that the Amended Plan fails to satisfy the requirement of 22 § 1125(b), made applicable by § 901, because the definition of "Debtor" does not contain adequate 23 information. The term "Debtor" is statutorily defined in § 101(13) as a "person or municipality 24 concerning which a case under this title has been commenced." The Amended Plan defines "Debtor" 25 as the "Pierce County Housing Authority, whether prior to or following confirmation." Article II.A.18.

1 This is a proper designation of the debtor filing the Petition in this case and the Court will not require 2 an expanded definition.

3 2. Article II.A.27

4 The Eagles Watch Creditors argue that the term “Insurance Claims” also fails to contain 5 adequate information. It is further alleged that this definition is inequitable, not feasible and not in the 6 best interest of creditors. It is contended that the definition is too narrow in that it fails to include 7 potential claims against the Debtor’s former counsel. Based on the testimony presented, it is evident 8 that this omission was intentional. The Debtor denies any liability by its former counsel and has made 9 the conscious decision to exclude it as a potential claim that could be investigated and pursued by the 10 Post-Confirmation Committee (defined in Article II.A.40 as the “Official Unsecured Creditors 11 Committee following Confirmation”). Article VII.H. specifically provides that “[a]part from Insurance 12 Claims, all rights, claims and causes of action, whether equitable or legal, of the Debtor against all 13 persons are reserved for the Post-Confirmation Debtor.” This objection is not an issue of adequate 14 information. The real issue is whether the Debtor’s failure to allow the Post-Confirmation Committee to 15 pursue potential claims violates the best interest of creditors set forth in § 943(b)(7). As this issue is 16 raised in regards to several provisions in the Amended Plan, the Court will discuss this issue 17 collectively below.

18 3. Article IV.B.5.b.(1)

19 The Eagles Watch Creditors object to the provisions for payment of the claims of Class 5 20 claimants who select Alternative A, because as amended, such claimants will not be paid until all 21 potential insurance claims have been exhausted. In its supplemental reply, the Debtor has admitted 22 that the language of this section should be revised to clarify that claimants who select Alternative A will 23 be paid within five business days of the earlier of the date that (i) the funds in the Distribution Account 24 are sufficient to pay in full all Claimants electing treatment under Alternative A, or (ii) all recoverable 25 assets have been liquidated. With this revision, the Court concludes that this section does not prohibit confirmation.

1 4. Article V.A

2 This provision allows the Post-Confirmation Debtor to settle or compromise any controversies
3 regarding claims without notice or further order of the Court. According to the Eagles Watch Creditor's 4 Supplemental Objection to First Amended Plan, this provision violates § 943(b)(3), (b)(7) and 5 § 1125(b). The Court is unclear how such provision violates § 943(b)(3), which requires that any 6 amounts to be paid by the debtor or any person for services or expenses in the case or incident to the 7 plan to have been fully disclosed and reasonable. Nor is § 1125(b) applicable, which forbids 8 solicitation of a plan unless parties have first had an opportunity to review the plan or a summary of the 9 plan, and a disclosure statement.

10 The Eagles Watch Creditors state that the language should be revised to state that the Post-11 Confirmation Debtor cannot settle or compromise a claim in a manner that conflicts with the terms of 12 the Plan without notice to creditors. Such a requirement, however, is self evident and provided for in 13 the agreement itself. The Post-Confirmation Debtor is required to comply with the terms of the 14 confirmed Plan. It is an event of default to fail to comply with a material provision of the Plan under 15 Article VIII.I, which if not cured after notice, entitles the party to seek additional remedies. The Debtor 16 is also bound by the terms of a confirmed plan pursuant to § 944.

17 5. Article VI.C

18 This provision allows the Debtor to reject all unexpired leases and tenancies of those claimants 19 set forth on Exhibit A to the Amended Plan. Such claimant is a month-to-month tenant and the 20 rejection would be effective 60 days following the Effective Date of the Plan. The claimant shall also 21 be paid a moving allowance of $1,500.

22 The Eagles Watch Creditors argue that this provision violates the best interest of creditors 23 under § 943(b)(7), fails to provide for the same treatment of each claim or interest in a class under 24 § 1123(a)(4), and allows the debtor to take action prohibited by the law under § 943(b)(4).
25

1 This provision has been substantially revised since the original Plan was filed. The original 2 Plan only applied to those claimants in Class 6 who chose Alternative A. The provision in the 3 Amended Plan applies to all claimants listed on Exhibit A. According to Exhibit A, this provision would 4 affect tenants in only four or five units. The original Plan required the claimant to terminate the 5 tenancy within 20 days of the Effective Date and covenant not to seek tenancy in any other of the 6 Debtor's properties. In exchange, they would receive a cash-payment only if the adjacent lot sells or 7 an insurance recovery is obtained. Under the Amended Plan, the claimants whose tenancies are 8 terminated are guaranteed a payment of $1,500 within two business days after the tenancy is 9 transferred to the Debtor. Since the hearing, the Debtor has since filed a Statement of Intention to 10 Amend First Amended Plan for Adjustment of Debts of Pierce County Housing Authority (Statement of 11 Intention), proposing to amend this section further to provide that each claimant shall "have the option 12 of moving to another of the Debtor's affordable housing facilities (any facility other than the Eagle's 13 Watch facility), so long as such Claimant can satisfy ordinary and customary screening requirements."
14 Statement of Intention at 2 (No. 209).

15 The Eagles Watch Creditors argue that the Debtor should be required to relocate them to 16 another non-hazardous apartment of Eagles Watch. Although some of the displaced tenants may 17 prefer this option, the failure of the Debtor to adopt this approach is not a basis for denying 18 confirmation. The terms contained in the Amended Plan were agreed upon after negotiations with the 19 UCC and provide more favorable treatment to those claimants whose tenancies are terminated than 20 originally proposed. The Debtor has agreed to further revisions as set forth in the Statement of 21 Intention providing the tenant with the option of relocating to another of the Debtor's affordable housing 22 facilities. The Court is not aware of any prohibition against the Debtor terminating these month-to-23 month tenancies under either the Bankruptcy Code or state law. See RCW 59.18.200(1)(A) 24 (authorizing month-to-month tenancies to be terminated upon 20 days' notice for any reason). The 25 Debtor should not be required to transfer the tenants to another unit at Eagles Watch, especially as the tenants at issue have asserted mold-related injury as a result of residing at this facility.

1 The Court also finds the offer to pay $1,500 in relocation costs to be reasonable. Although the 2 Court agrees that it may impose a hardship on the tenant to receive the funds two days after vacating 3 the premises, the Court is unaware of any requirement that would impose a duty on the Debtor to 4 tender such funds before possession has been transferred. The Court concludes that this provision, 5 as set forth in the Statement of Intention, is confirmable.

6 6. Article VII.A

7 This section is simply a summary of the means for executing the Debtor's Amended Plan.
8 Specific means for execution are set forth in more detail in the remaining provisions. Nothing 9 contained in this general summary violates a plan confirmation requirement.

10 7. Article VII.D

11 The Eagles Watch Creditors object to the limitations set forth in the Amended Plan regarding 12 who the Post-Confirmation Committee can employ as professionals. This section provides that the 13 Post-Confirmation Committee can only employ those "professionals that (i) do not hold or represent an 14 interest adverse to the Debtor, and (ii) are disinterested persons, within the meaning for those terms 15 as set forth in 11 U.S.C. § 327(a)." Article VII.D. The Eagles Watch Creditors argue that this provision 16 violates § 943(b)(7), § 1123(a)(5) and § 1125. As with prior objections, the Court does not find that 17 § 1123(a)(5) or § 1125 are applicable. The primary issue is whether the Debtor's proposed restrictions 18 on the Post-Confirmation Committee's retention of professionals violates § 943(b)(7). This objection 19 will also be addressed in more detail below.

20 8. Article VII.F

21 This section provides for the assignment of insurance claims to the Post-Confirmation 22 Committee. The Eagles Watch Creditors assert that this section should be revised (1) to reflect that 23 the Debtor is transferring, not assigning such claims, (2) the $15,000 proposed for the examiner is 24 available for the pursuit of the insurance claims, and (3) that all proceeds recovered as a result of the 25

1 insurance claims will be deposited into the Distribution Account, regardless of whether the proceeds 2 are derived from an insurance policy or an action maintained as a result of an insurance policy.

3 The Debtor has made clear its intent to transfer the insurance claims to the Post-Confirmation
4 Committee and that it is willing to work with the Committee to ensure that the language is sufficient 5 and will not defeat insurance coverage. The issue of the examiner and attendant fees will be 6 discussed in more detail below.

7 9. Article VII.G

8 This provision proposes the appointment of an examiner to investigate and report to the Court 9 the existence of possible insurance coverage by Pierce County or its excess insurers. The Eagles 10 Watch Creditors argue that this provision should be removed in its entirety because it is in the best 11 interest of creditors to immediately pursue whatever insurance claims may exist.

12 The “best interest of creditors” requirement of § 943(b)(7) is “generally regarded as requiring 13 that a proposed plan provide a better alternative for creditors than what they already have.” Mount 14 Carbon, 242 B.R. at 34. The “best interest” test has been described as a “floor requiring a reasonable 15 effort at payment of creditors by the municipal debtor” and the “feasibility” requirement as a 16 “corresponding ceiling which prevents the Chapter 9 debtor from promising more than it can deliver.”
17 Mount Carbon, 242 B.R. at 34.

18 The Debtor strenuously denies liability by Pierce County for any of its obligations, and its stated 19 justification for the appointment of an examiner is to prevent further needless litigation. The Court has 20 no opinion whether coverage by Pierce County is available. The testimony, however, of the former 21 Director of Risk Management for Pierce County, as to the possible existence of coverage under Pierce 22 County’s self-insurance program and excess insurance policies, is found to be credible. The Debtor 23 did not present any testimony refuting the former director’s opinion. The Court agrees that it is not in 24 the best interest of creditors to go through the added step and cost of requiring an examiner to review 25 and approve for tender every claim. There is no evidence that the Post-Confirmation Committee is not able to conduct this review without the assistance of an examiner. If the Post-Confirmation

1 Committee, with the assistance of counsel, determines that the claims should be tendered, it can likely 2 do so with minimal cost. It will then be up to Pierce County and any potential insurers to decide 3 whether or not to defend against such claims.

4 The same is true of the alleged claim against the Debtor's former counsel. The Debtor states 5 that it does not believe that its former counsel has any liability and that it is not a requirement of 6 confirmation that it allow the Post-Confirmation Committee to pursue any and all potential claims. In 7 support, the Debtor cites to In re Corcoran Hosp. Dist., 233 B.R. 449 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. 1999), where 8 the bankruptcy court determined that a hospital district had no obligation to raise taxes to pay 9 unsecured claims in full in order to demonstrate that the plan was proposed in good faith and fair and 10 equitable. Corcoran, 233 B.R. at 459-60 (concluding that a plan was proposed in good faith where the 11 debtor hospital demonstrated that it could not raise taxes sufficient to pay more to creditors).

12 Unlike in Corcoran, the issue in this case is not whether the Debtor should be required to raise 13 taxes to pay creditors. The Debtor has no taxing authority, and it is undisputed that Washington State 14 law prevents the Debtor from raising rents as a possible source of funds to pay creditors. See RCW 15 35.82.080. Rather, the issue in this case is whether it is in the best interest of creditors to confirm a 16 plan that precludes the Post-Confirmation Committee from investigating and possibly pursuing all 17 potential sources of recovery.

18 The Debtor has failed to state a valid reason why the Post-Confirmation Committee should be 19 prevented from evaluating this claim. The Court concludes that a preponderance of the evidence 20 indicates that it is not in the best interest of creditors to allow the Debtor to remove this determination 21 from the Post-Confirmation Committee. After evaluating the claim, the Committee may decide that 22 there is no potential liability or that the cost of pursuing such claim outweighs any potential benefit.
23 This decision, however, is a valuable right that the Debtor should not eliminate under the terms of its 24 Amended Plan. To do so is an attempt to cut-off potential sources of funds for payment of claims and 25 also raises the issue of whether the Debtor's Amended Plan has been proposed in good faith.

1 Under § 1129(a)(3), made applicable to Chapter 9 by § 901(a), it is a requirement of 2 confirmation that the plan be proposed in good faith.⁶ Although the term “good faith” is not defined in 3 the bankruptcy code, nor is there significant case law exploring its meaning in the context of a Chapter 4 9 plan, courts have looked to cases interpreting its meaning under Chapter 11 and Chapter 13 for 5 guidance, as these chapters also require that plans be proposed in “good faith.” See § 1129(a)(3); 6 § 1325(a)(3).

7 Most courts agree that the determination of whether a plan has been proposed in good faith
8 “requires a factual inquiry of the totality of the circumstances.” Mount Carbon, 242 B.R. at 39. Factors 9 a court should examine include: “(1) whether a plan comports with the provisions and purpose of the 10 Code and the chapter under which it is proposed, (2) whether a plan is feasible, (3) whether a plan is 11 proposed with honesty and sincerity, and (4) whether a plan’s terms or the process used to seek its 12 confirmation was fundamentally fair.” Mount Carbon, 242 B.R. at 40-41.

13 The Court concludes that the Debtor’s attempts to forestall the ability of the Post-Confirmation 14 Committee to investigate potential sources of recovery does not indicate a sincere attempt by the 15 Debtor to readjust its debts by maximizing the creditors’ recovery.

16 The same is also true of the Debtor’s restrictions on the employment of professionals by the 17 Post-Confirmation Committee contained in Article VII.D. As stated above, this section provides that 18 the Post-Confirmation Committee can only employ those “professionals that (i) do not hold or 19 represent an interest adverse to the Debtor, and (ii) are disinterested persons, within the meaning for 20 those terms as set forth in 11 U.S.C. § 327(a).” Article VII.D. Counsel for both the Debtor and the 21 UCC admitted at the hearing that this provision was inserted by the Debtor and not required by the 22 Bankruptcy Code. The Court agrees. Section 327 is not applicable to the retention of a professional 23 for the Post-Confirmation Committee. Rather, the employment of professionals by the Post-24

25 ⁶ It is important to note that this is a different inquiry than whether the petition was filed in good faith. See In re Madison Hotel Assoc., 749 F.2d 410, 425 (7th Cir. 1984).

1 Confirmation Committee is governed by § 1103, made applicable to Chapter 9 by § 901. The relevant 2 distinction in this case is that § 1103, unlike § 327(a), does not contain a requirement that 3 professionals employed by a committee be “disinterested.” Section 1103(b); In re Big Rivers Elec.
4 Corp., 355 F.3d 415, 439 (6th Cir. 2004). Unlike § 327, this section also states that although such 5 professional may not represent any other entity having an adverse interest in connection with the case 6 while employed by the committee, “[r]epresentation of one of more creditors of the same class as 7 represented by the committee shall not per se constitute the representation of an adverse interest.”
8 Section § 1103(b).

9 The Debtor admits that the intent of this section is to prevent Cochran’s continued involvement 10 in this case. Whatever the intent, the Court concludes that this is another improper restriction by the 11 Debtor on the rights of the Post-Confirmation Committee. In requiring that any person selected by the 12 Committee be “disinterested” within the meaning of § 327(a), this is a clear attempt by the Debtor to 13 restrict the Post-Confirmation Committee’s ability to select counsel they believe to be in their best 14 interest. The Court is making no representation as to whether it would be in the best interest of the 15 Post-Confirmation Committee to select Cochran to assume this role. The Post-Confirmation 16 Committee may determine that because of the animosity between the Debtor and Cochran that the 17 retention of another individual would be more suitable. This, however, is a determination for the Post-18 Confirmation Committee to make, not the Debtor. As stated above, good faith requires an evaluation 19 of the totality of the circumstances. A court looks to whether a plan is proposed with honesty and 20 sincerity and whether a plan’s terms are fundamentally fair. Mount Carbon, 242 B.R. at 40-41. Similar 21 to the Debtor’s attempt to restrict the pursuit of all legitimate causes of action that may increase the 22 recovery of creditors, the Debtor’s proposal to restrict who the Post-Confirmation Committee may 23 employ, through the use of a Bankruptcy Code section that is otherwise inapplicable, does not exhibit 24 sincerity or fairness in dealing with its creditors.

2 The Court is aware that a Chapter 9 bankruptcy is somewhat unique and that its role is limited 3 both by the Code, in particular § 903 and § 904, and by the Tenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.
4 One responsibility the Court does have, however, is to ensure that the Amended Plan meets the 5 requirements of confirmation. The Court concludes that the Amended Plan as proposed is not 6 confirmable with (1) the requirement that an examiner be appointed to determine whether to pursue 7 claims against Pierce County or its insurers, (2) the limitation on the ability of the Post-Confirmation 8 Committee to evaluate and possibly pursue all legitimate claims that may result in increased 9 distribution to the unsecured creditors, and (3) the limitation on the ability of the Post-Confirmation 10 Committee to retain a professional that it determines would best represent their interests. As 11 proposed, the Amended Plan is not in the best interest of creditors as required by § 943(b)(7) and 12 does not meet the good faith requirement of § 1129(a)(3).

13 10. Article VIII.F⁷

14 The Eagles Watch Creditors object to this provision regarding the Debtor's document retention 15 policies. The Debtor indicated at the hearing that they are willing to revise this language to deal with 16 this objection.

17 11. Plan May Defeat Insurance Coverage

18 The Eagles Watch Creditors have raised the general concern that the language of the 19 Amended Plan may defeat insurance coverage. The Debtor has again indicated its intent to work with 20 the parties to ensure that this is not an issue.

⁷ The Eagles Watch Creditor's supplemental pleading incorrectly refers to this section as Article III.F.

1 In summary, the Court approves the Debtor's Disclosure Statement and concludes that the 2 Debtor is eligible to be a debtor under Chapter 9. Confirmation of the Amended Plan as proposed is 3 denied without prejudice.
